What is a crypto/NFT wallet?

- Cryptocurrency/NFT wallets are programs or devices that are used to store and access your assets.

- A wallet contains a public key (address used to send assets to the wallet) and a private key (which grants control of the wallet).

- Most cryptocurrency wallets are non-custodial, where you have sole control of your private key.

HOT VS. COLD
WALLETS

→ Always connected to the internet
→ Faster and easier to transact
→ Could be vulnerable to online attacks

→ Offline storage, usually in a hardware wallet
→ Most secure
→ Less convenient

SOFTWARE VS. HARDWARE
WALLETS

→ Downloaded as applications on a device
→ Web, Desktop and Mobile

→ Form of cold wallet
→ Physical device, access assets by connecting to main computer or device
